the Philadelphias, Though, So No Harm Is Done—The Bostons Win a Double Header from the Washingtons. While the Brooklyns again suffered defeat at Baltimore resterday, their lead was not de-creased as the Philadelphias dropped another heartbreaking game to the New Yorks. The estons, by taking a double header from the Washingtons, have approached to within one point of the Quakers, who, it would appear, have no certain hold on second place. BALTIMORE, 3: BECOELYN, 2.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 29.—The Baltimores and Brooklyns to day gave as great an exhibition of ball playing as has been seen here this season. Both teams fought hard for supremacy, the Orioles finally winning out. The score was at its up to the ninth inning, when Brodie got started on being hit by a pitched ball. Keister's saurifice seat him to second, and Sheekarf followed with a slashing single to right field, sending the "Duke" in with the winning run. The contest was a pitchers' battle between Modinnity and Hughes. Both men did great work, but the former was the most fortunate. Modinnity and a bad start. The Superhas bunched three hits in the first inning, which netted them two runs. After this the Oriole twirler was invincible. He was especially effective when any of the bases were occupied. Dr. Jimmy McJames to-day received a telegram from Cheraw. S. C., informing him of the death of his mother. MoJames was considerably shocked at the news, as he did not know his mother wassick. He left immediately for the South. The score:

NEW YORK, 7; PHILADELPHIA, 2. PHILADELPHIA. 2.

PHILADELPHIA. Sept. 20.—The New Yorks administered a crushing blow to the Philadelphias this afternoon, when with Gettig in the box they again downed the locals. The latter were under a strain which was almost visible. Bernhard was not hit to any axtent, but in the fifth inning he went into the air, and before he came down the visitors, with the aid of a pair of singles and a fumble by Dolan, scored four runs, and settled the result of the game beyond reasonable doubt. FOOTBALL.

Strong Play by Princeton's Second Eleven. PRINCETON, Sept. 29.-The second eleven put up a husky fight against the 'Varsity all the way through the fifteen minutes' practice game this afternoon, and not only kept them away from the goal line, but made a hair-raising at tempt at scoring themselves. The practice was far and away the hardest of the season. and that the men were able to stand the heavy strain shows how rapidly they are coming into form. Kafer, who played half back in the game last year, was out for the first time this afternoon. He did not intend to play this fall, but the lack of seasoned material in the back field has brought him into the game again. Duncan's work at quarter back to-day was well up toward the form he showed last year, and made a noticeable improvement in the general team work. Young, the former Cornell player, ran the scrub in fine style and cut off several gains by his hard tackling. It was rumored to-night that if Admiral Dewey accepts the invitation sent him by the faculity to be present at Commemoration Day exercises, Oct. 21, an effort will be made to have the West Point game, scheduled for that day at West Point, played at Princeton. It is contrary to rules for West Point to permit the team to play football games away from home, but it is believed a special dispensation may be secured which will allow the Carlets to come to Princeton, if Admiral Dewey decides to be present. and that the men were able to stand the heavy Football at Trinity College.

HARTFORD, Sept. 20.-Trinity's football team s getting into shape for its first game with Yale and New Haven on Oct. 4, and is giving it is evident that this year's team is to be a light one. Heavy men are scarce at the college this year and the team will feel it. Some of Trinity's old men think that a game with Yale at the start off is a preity stiff beginning, but now that they are in for it they are going to do the best they know how. The present work consists of pusting, falling on the ball, tackling and breaking through. Crans. Johnson and Trumbull of the freshmen are doing well. The former is from Waterbury and gives promise of being an unusually good man. He is one of the few heavy weights which the team has to draw upon. Something good is also expected from Stone, 1901, whe made a great showing on the scrub team last fig. He is especially desirable, as he is another heavy-weight and strong. Weibel, 1902, is another probable recruit from the ranks of the scrub players, while Derby, 1901, will be tried on the line. Hill, 1902, stands a chance for one of the centre positions. year and the team will feel it. Some of Trin-

More Hard Luck for Columbia.

Not even the Dewey naval parade, only a short distance from the football field, could prevent practice yesterday. Everybody realizes that the first game is but four days off, and Columbia wants to show up well. By spraining his ankle Knapp augmented the "retired" lis to eight, and the two Jones brothers had to dis-continue practice on account of the death of a parent. Miller played well in Knapp's place a right tackle and Bob Larendon of Knicker-bocker Athletic Club fame, played the fastest kind of game at half, scoring both of the 'Varsity touchdowns in the afternoon. There was no morning practice and a half hour's game with the scrub comprised the afternoon work. The defence of the Varsity is still very weak, and Huntington, the hockey player, who was at half on the second team, broke through at one time for a run of thirty yards, when he was downed. This was the only chance the scrub had to score, and they were unable to take advantage of it. There will be a longer game to-morrow. right tackle, and Bob Larendon, of Knicker-

Football News from Harvard. CAMBRIDGE, Sept. 29.-Percy D. Haughton the Harvard tackle, who was reported as engaged to coach Cornell, was on the Harvard field this afternoon coaching the tackles and punters. He said that he had entered into no punters. He said that he had entered into no agreement with the Ithacans, but had received an offer. He is very anxious to continue his work with the Harvard players, and every effort will be made to keep him here. Lewis also mentioned as engaged, will coach Harvard exclusively. Malcolm Donald of last years team has entered the law school and will begin training for the eleven at once, but will not play until the season is fairly well advanced. FATAL DAY FOR FAVORITES.

TWO FIRST CHOICES AT GRAVESEND SHOT ON THE TRACK.

eep o'Day's Running in the Handicap for All Ages is Being Officially Investigated -Mechanus Again Scores for Park Row -Standing at Length Shows His Class. Dewey Day at the Gravesend racetrack was rimfull of exciting incidents not down on the programme. Two horses feil in their repective races and by a singular coincidence both started favorites, hailed from the same stable, were ridden by the same jockey and finally were shot where they fell, by an expert agent of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. In cheerful contrast to these gruesome side issues came a timely outbreak of patriotism which inspired Lander's band to make a triumphal tour of the awas, playing National airs to the evident delight of the 5,000 visitors. Most of the other favorites in the different races might as well have fallen down bodlly as he two that were killed, the only first choice to land the money being The Pride. James Whitten's speedy gelding easily took the measure of Peace and Judge Wardell in the second race. It was a selling affair and Ike Thompson boosted The Pride's price from the en-tered figure of $1,200 to $2,000. The owner protected the winner with an extra bid of $5. Old Abuse was heavily played to beat seven other shifty sprinters in the opening dash for three-year-olds and upward. He got off well other shifty sprinters in the opening dash for three-year-olds and upward. He got off well but immediately dropped back into the bunch and collapsed at the last furious pole. A timely hullet ended the horse's misery and Joekey Jenkins limped home after a miraculous escape. The race was between Meshanus, Ben Hadad and Dolle Wiethoff all the way the beef an "colt winning out by a length and a half in the drive, with Ben Hadad a length in front of Dollie Wiethoff, who beat Miss Marion a head. Jenkins had the hardihood to turn out again on St. Clair in the fifth race slthough the colt was palpably lame.

The popular three-year-old managed to struggle along for over half a mile, where he went down in a hean. After that Belle of Troy found little difficulty in winning by a length and a half from Sir Hubert, who beat Federal eight lengths.

The peculiar form displayed by Peep o'Day in the third race stirred up a peck of trouble. He started an odds-on favorite, but after showing the way for two furloogs he dropped back to last position and only came to life again in time to be third, the two-year-old Standing and W. H. Clark's Muskadine finishing lengths apart in front of him. The stewards are looking into the case and began by interviewing Jockey Maher.

Danny must have been benefited by the carpeting" for he put up a rare finish on Kilmarnock in the next event and drove John E. Madden's colt home a winner by a length and a half from Pupil, with Yellow Tail a length from Shoreham, Prestidgitator and six other two-year-olds. Summary:

The Abbot Goes a Quarter of a Mile at 1:53 Gait.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 29.-Although the weather was marred by a stiff, cold wind, the time made by the harpess racers at the fair grounds to-day was unusually fast. records were broken. The star performer was The Abbot, who trotted the fastest quarter ever officially recorded, 20 seconds. The previous mark was 20% seconds, made in record trials by Nancy Hanks, Alix and Azote, The Abbot, was paced by a runner in the last quarter of a mile workout, the other three quarters being trotted in comparatively slow time. The fastest two-year-old heat of the season was also trotted. Endow turned the track in 2:17%. Endow is a bay gelding by Cecilian out of Antella. By Ansel, owned by Miller & Sibley of Franklin, Pa.

According to the first pooling the result of the Preparation Stake was a surprise. Joe N. and Fereno divided the honors about evenly as favorite and Endow went begging. Although Fereno won the first heat and Joe N. was second, with Endow fifth, the place betting on Endow in the next heat was 3 to 5, while Joe N. was even. Endow spreadeagled the field in both the second and third heats. Arlington won the Paul Jones Purse for 2:07 pacers in the two fastest heats of the meeting. He was a prohibitive favorite, but was put to considerable trouble to win the second heat. Eyelet made a game race and forced Smith to use the whip on Ariington to win by haif a length. In the 2:20 trot Lucille's record took a big drop. The first heat was here easily, but she had to be driven out to take the second from May C., lowering her record to 2:11%. Hard on the Under Body. The big parade did not stop work on the Shamrock at the Eris Basin Dry Dock yesterday except for a moment. The crew were busy all day getting the under body smooth and clean, and only stopped while the warships were passing up the bay. men seemed to be impressed with the enthusiasm with which the excursionists greeted Admiral Dewey and the cruiser Olympia, and they cheered as the ships went by, although they were some distance from the line of parade. The tug Lawrence took part in the festivities and carried the big Shamrock flag, which was heartily greeted everywhere. Early in the morning William Fife paid a visit to the dry dock to see how the work was progressing, and then went back to the Erin and witnessed the parade from that yacht.

The bronze bottom of the challenger is beof the burnishing machines. By to-morrow night it will be as smooth as it is possible to make any metal. The lead at the bot-tom of the keel received another cont of paint yesterday and it will be painted again to-day. The top sides, which are made of an alloy of aluminum, have received the first coat of green. They will be painted again and by to-night it is expected the yacht will be and by to-night it is expected the yacht will be ready for floating. To-morrow being Sunday the men will rest and the yacht will remain in the dry dock. She will be floated early Monday morning and be measured.

Part of the crew yesterday were at work on the rigging and spars. Every sheet and halilard will be thoroughly overhauled telore the yacht leaves the dock, and every block will be examined corefully. The spars, too, are being examined for any weaknesses that may have developed, and Mr. Ratsey's astimaters are busy on the salls which are being trimmed to a nicety. The Shamrock will be towed to her mooring in the Horseshoe as soon as she is measured.

SHAMROCK'S MEN VISIT COLUMBIA. English Skippers Say "She's a Fine Bont" Measurements on Monday.

There was not much to relieve the monotony yesterday at the Brooklyn Navy Yard Dry Dock No. 3, where the yacht Columbia lies bolstered up, until late in the afternoon when Capts. Hogarth and Wringe and Sailmaker Batsey of the Shamrock appeared on the scene and were made acquainted with Capt. Charles Barr of the American cup defender. The visit of the foreign delegation was as much of a surprise to the Columbia's skipper as it was to the small number of spectators at the east side of the dock. The trie had some difficulty in getting past Watchman Fowler at the Navy Yard gate. After some parley Fowler said to Ratsey: 'Who are you, anyhow?"

"Oh, I'm an Englishman," replied the stal-"Friend of Lipton's, eh?"

wart sal maker.

Yes, I know Sir Thomas very well indeed." "Well, I guess it's all right," was Fowler's decision. So the party passed in and were soon at the Columbia's dock. They were taken in hand by Capt. Barr and Mate Allen and went down into the basin to have a good look at the Xankee boat's underbody. When they finished their inspection all they would say was: "She's a fire beat."

hand by Capt. Barr and Mate Allen and went down into the basin to have a good look at the Yankee boat's underbody. When they finished their inspection all they would say was: "She's a fine boat."

They ware brought over to the Navy Yard from Erie Basin, where the Shamrock lies, by Mitchell, the man who is painting the Columbia's torsides.

John Hyslop, the measurer of the New York Yard. He called to notify Capt. Barr that he would use his official tape on the Columbia early next Monday morning and he gave instructions about how he wanted the yacht placed. Afterward he told his plans for the day to a reporter of The Sun.

"I shall start in to measure the Columbia about 60'clock on Monday morning." he said.

"Then I shall be taken to the Erie Basin in the Shamrock's tender, where I shall take the challener's measurements. I expect to finish this work shortly after noon. Then I will make my calculations for time allowance and send the figures to Secretary Oddle, who will be walting at the New York Yeath Club house to receive them, and who will promptly furnish copies to the bress."

The work of cleaning and polishing the underbody of the Columbia was about two-thirds finished yesterday. Work will be resumed early this morning and it is hoped the rob will be done by 30'clock in the afternoon. The crew of the yacht was utilized on this work yesterday and in addition a score of Navy Yard employees were pressed into service. The verdigris stuck to the bronze plates like a leech and the sailors made slow work in removing the substance. Finally an electric volisher was brought into play, but it was quickly found that handwork was better for the purpose as the electric emprywheel made the bronze surface too rough. When it was time to knock off, at 50'clock, the Deer I sle sailors were glad enough to quit, for their arms were very lame from securing.

A hew bobstany to replace the one which broke last week was becught to the yard and the work of rigging it was completed just before 50'clock. It is a larger stay than the o

CUP RACERS COMPARED.

Columbia's Strength in Light Winds and Shamrock's in a Stiff Breeze. Now that the Columbia and Shamrock are in the dry docks it is easy to see the differences in the two models and make comparisons. It would have been more interesting to yachtsmen if the yachts had been put in the same dock as was done when the Valkyrie came over here, but C. Oliver Iselin did not want this and so got permission to have the Columbia sent to the Navy Yard. Sir Thomas Lipton suggested that as there was so much interest being taken in the two yachta that it would be a good thing to dock them together and to charge a small fee to see them and that the money obtained in this way should be given to some popular charity.

The Columbia is regarded by all experts as having the best model. Her lines are easy and fine, and if she does not win the races it will be a great surprise. The Shamrock's bow is thinper than that of the Columbia, and the forward overhang is not so long. On deck the Columbia is at least five feet longer than the challenger and both have practically the same water line length, having been built up to the limit, 90 feet. The Columbia's entrance is easy and the 1 1 line of her underbody runs in almost a straight easy curve to the bottom of the fin. She is cut away more forward than the Shamrock and the fin of the challenger is much longer on top than that of the defending yacht.

away more forward han toe Shamfrock and the fin of the challenger is much longer on top than that of the defending yacht.

In the forward part of the two boats, however, the difference is not much, but in the after section it is quite marked. The Shamfrock has a greater beam than the Columbia and her widest part is considerably aft of the mast. Her quarters are full and hard and might be likened in shape to a champagne glass, while the Columbia is more like a claret glass. In the Shamfock there is champagne glass, while the Columbia is more like a claret glass. In the Shamfock there is charp curve into the garboards, which causes a hollow there, while on the Columbia the curve is much easier. It is from these full quarters that she gets her sail-carrying power and her stability. On the Columbia the after lines are as easy and graceful as the forward ones, and there is not a hard point on the hull anywhere. The whole form of the yacht is perfectly moulded and there is no part where any undue resistance is offered to the water. It is different on the Shamfock. The water line ends abruptly, and the stern is hard and harsh. Fife has not taken the advantage of his overhang, and it is thought that the after part of the Shamfock must drag in the water and not leave it as cleanly as the Columbia.

The challenger draws at least a foot and a half more water than the Columbia. The rade is much lower than that of the American yacht. The write also enables the challenger to get her stability, but it also enables the challenger to get her stability with less lead than the American yacht. The rake of the runder pose of the Columbia. The rade on the two yachts in moulded differently. That, on the Shamfock is not built-ahared, in the deepest part. The keel is rockered, the curve forward being about 22 inches in 12 feet and it rises a few inches aft to the runder post. The forward side of the fin. An Englishman has developed a remarkable appliance that robs punctures of their terrors, it is in the form of a pump that works automatically with the revolutions of the wheeles and keeps filling the tires with air. The last vention is not strictly new, but the perfection of it is. English riders who have it in daily use pronounce it satisfactory. It does away with the necessity of making the back ache and blistering the fingers by the use on the road of the small hand pump. The tires are inflated by riding on them and the pump seeps at work until a proper pressure has been obtained. The pump is fixed permanently to the inner tube, passing through the rim, like the ordinary valve. The recurring depression of the tire at the point of its contact with the road causes the operation of a piston in the pumping valve, so that as often as that part of the tire to which the valve with its concealed pump is fixed passes over the ground, the piston is driven book and air is taken into the tire. A wheel with its tires entirely deflated may be walked a few rods and there will then be enough air in the tires to permit of riding. As the tires become more and more inflated, the action of the pump loses its force and when the tire is so hard that there is only a slight de-pression in it as it passes over the ground, the nump becomes almost inoperative. If a pune-ture occurs and the tire begins to grow soft, the nump starts at work, and on a tire that has several small punctures in it the nump keeps putting in new air faster than it escapes and keeps the tires hard.

President Keenan, of the L. A. W., has suspended Charles W. Mears, the Chief Consul of the Ohio Division, pending the investigation of charges that he has acted in a manner prejudicial to the interests of the League.

dicial to the interests of the League.

Mears is largely responsible for the discovery of Keenan as a candidate for the presidency, and he managed the campaign of the Pittsburgher. He does not take his suspension from office as a just punishment for putting Keenan in power, but he declares that the milk in the coconnut is his criticism of the blunders of the administration. This, he contends, is not hurtful to the League, as he dealt with personal incompetency. The Ohio division of the League, under Mears, has held its end up better than almost any other. The Executive Committee of three, with Keenan as chairman, will pass on the charges.

SUICIDE IN A GRAVETARD. A Young Man Goes to the Family Burial

Plot to Kill Himself. CINCINNATI, Sept. 20.-Alfred La Bare, 21 years of age, a shoe cutter employed at Sach's shoe factory in Cincinnati, shot himself five times with fatal effect over the graves of his grandparents and little sister, in the family burial grounds, at an isolated place about two miles from Bromley, Ky., some time last night. His body was found this morning by a farmer who noticed the form of a man, partly concealed by an open umbrella, on one of the cealed by an open umbrella, on one of the graves. Thinking the man was asleep the larmer attempted to arouse him, but on turning over the lody he saw a number of vistol wounds, while an empty revolvor was lying near the body.

The parents of the young man were notified. He belongs to a prominent Kentucky family, but for some years he has made his home in Sedamsville. His father, who called at the morgue to identify the body, said that his son's mind appeared to have been affected by religious study and that he had been considered mentally irresponsible for some time.

LaBars had gathered to zether what little money he had at home and left there on Thursday afternoon without saying anything of his latentions. When the clothes of the saided were searched a lot of Biblical quotations, written in a sorawing hand on fragments of note paner, were found. He had sought the isolate if amily burial ground some time during the night.
